FURIOUS BATTLE AROUND YPRES

Heaviest Engagement of the War Is Developing.

GERMANS MAKING PROGRESS

Terrific Assault Is Being Carried on Against the British, Belgian and French Lines in Flanders—Allies Lose Some Ground, but Recover at Several Points.

London, April 27.—The tremendous battle begun by the German attack on the allied arclike front around Ypres, in the plains of Flanders, continues with undiminished fury and England, like the rest of Europe, is awaiting the outcome with undisguised anxiety.

Even the news that the allied fleet and army have commenced an attack on the Dardanelles and that troops are advancing against the Turkish entrenchments, which a few days ago would have aroused immense enthusiasm, has received only passing attention in the face of the stakes that are in the balance in the battle which is being fought beyond the English channel.

While the majority of those capable of forming an opinion believe that the Germans, by the stroke they have delivered against the British, French and Belgians, are once again aiming at Dunkirk and Calais, there are others who believe that it is only a feint in force to draw the allies' reserves while preparations are being made for an attack at some other point in the long line.

Germans Dent Allies' Line.

Whatever are the intentions of the Germans they certainly made a successful coup, which, while it did not break, did dent the allies' line. The Canadians, who were holding the British portion of the lines, were the first to recover themselves and in a counter attack—the praises of which are ringing throughout the empire—recaptured the ground they had been compelled to give up and since then, with their comrades, have successfully withstood the German assaults.

The French and Belgians, who received the blast in fuller force and were driven back across the canal between Boesinghe and Steenstraete, were not much slower in recovering and, according to the French official reports, succeeded in regaining possession of the canal banks and much of the surrendered territory to the east.

There is no inclination here, however, to belittle the initial success of the German sweep and the work that is before the allied armies before the situation can be fully restored.

A writer in the Pall Mall Gazette describes it as "a masterly tactical counter stroke," and declares that "if the Germans have waited long to take their revenge for Neuve Chapelle they have taken it now." By getting across the canal it is pointed out that the Germans gained for the moment command of the new roads and if they had not been driven back they would have forced a readjustment of the whole allied line in the region of Ypres.

Official Reports Meager.

The official reports throw little light on the progress of the battle, but news from Holland gives the information that long trains of German reinforcements going to the front are passing equally long trains of wounded bound for the base hospitals.

There is no likelihood, therefore, that the battle will be over for some days to come, as the Germans have made immense preparations in men and material for their offensive, which has forestalled that of the allies.

That there is no shortage of either men or munitions is shown by the fact that the Germans are at the same time conducting an offensive in the heights of the Meuse, where they have made an unsuccessful attack, according to the French official report, in an effort to recapture Les Eparges.

British optimism in the outcome is encouraged by the success of the allies in repelling similar attacks last October, when they were less well equipped than the Germans, whereas, now there is believed to be little to choose as between the opposing forces in either numbers or the machinery of war. The battle has had a marked effect in recruiting, which enjoyed a considerable boom.

British King Donates $2,500.

London, April 27.—King George has opened with a donation of $2,500 a subscription list of the British committee for relief in Belgium. The national relief fund of the Prince of Wales has reached $5,000,000 ($25,000,000).

RICH FILES ANSWER TO BADGER BANKERS

Federal Board Sets May 20 as Date for Hearing.

Washington, April 27.—Bankers of Eastern and Southern Wisconsin who wish to be transferred from the Minneapolis to the Chicago federal reserve district, and representatives of the Minneapolis bank, will be heard by the federal reserve board May 20. The Minneapolis bank filed with the board a brief answering arguments made by the appealing banks.

In his answer John H. Rich, president of the Minneapolis bank, intimates that Milwaukee is attempting to stir up dissatisfaction among the Wisconsin banks in the Minneapolis reserve district.

Mr. Rich points out that while railroad communication with Chicago may be better the bankers do not handle their business in person in the reserve cities, but transact it largely by mail.

With respect to better mail service he says that while that to Chicago is slightly faster than the service to Minneapolis letters mailed one evening will arrive in either city the next morning, so in reality no time is lost.

No evidence was presented, according to Mr. Rich, to prove that excessive telephone and telegraph rates are charged on messages to Minneapolis.

LITTLE KNOWN OF ATTACK

British Land and Naval Forces Operating in Dardanelles.

London, April 27.—All that is known of the attack on the Dardanelles is contained in a brief report issued by the war office and admiralty, which simply says that in spite of serious opposition troops have been successfully landed at various points on the Gallipoli peninsula and that their advance continues.

The attack is being made by the land, the sea and the air. The allied armies are playing an important part in the operations, in locating positions and dropping bombs on the Turkish guns and trenches and directing the fire of the warships which are covering the landing of troops. The Russians are doing their share by making a demonstration against the forts at the Black sea entrance of the Bosphorus.

SAYS GERMAN SHELLS HAVE FIRED YPRES.

London, April 27.—"Ypres is in flames, the Germans having thrown a pall of incendiary bombs into the town." Thus telegraphs the Morning Post correspondent in Northern France.

"The fighting continues hotly all along this front," the correspondent adds. "The Germans show extraordinary daring in bringing heavy artillery close to their front line, the guns being mostly 13-inch Austrian howitzers on movable carriages."

HEDSHIN RISING WITH DR. INGELLS

Hedshin is said to be the largest camel used in the Turkish army. This photograph shows him rising from the ground with Dr. Ingells, German chief of the Turkish medical staff in the field with the Turkish army. The doctor has been given this enormous animal for all his trips. The soldier at the side is the personal attendant of the doctor. He belong to the Tenuiss tribe of Turks. His place is just behind the doctor on the camel's back, for the physician is not yet an expert driver of camels.

The government insists that the ship was merely taken into port to allow an examination of her cargo, and on account of danger in the North Sea to furnish a pilot. Meanwhile Jane Addams appealed to the American ambassador and did not attempt to conceal the belief that there was outside meddling, although it was stated that there was no intention to interfere with the peace delegates.

Villa is declared to have completed his concentration at Aguas Calientes, following his retreat from Irapuato, and the advance of the Zapatista forces from Mexico City is said to have drawn an "iron ring" about Obregon's army.

Advices to the state department made little reference to the Villa-Obregon situation.

OVER SIXTY OF THE MEN ILL

Announcement of German Commander Comes as an Unexpected Surprise and Causes Relief to Government Officials—Captain Thierfelder Says Dash for Open Sea Becomes Impossible.

Washington, April 27.—Announcement from Newport News that the commander of the German sea raider Kron Prinz Wilhelm had given notice he would intern for the war, without awaiting expiration of the time allowed him by the United States government to make his ship seaworthy, was received with surprise and relief by government officials.

The raider's action relieves the navy department of the necessity of keeping watch over the Wilhelm and an eye on the cordon of allied ships off the Virginia coast to assure the maintenance of American neutrality during the remainder of the time the cruiser had been allowed to make repairs.

It is understood that several days of that period still remained.

CAPTAIN EXPLAINS ACTION

Illness of any in the Crew Prevents Departure.

Newport News, April 27.—The German auxiliary cruiser Kron Prinz Wilhelm will be interned at the Norfolk navy yard, near its sister raider, the Prinz Eitel Friedrich.

Lieutenant Captain Thierfelder said he had intended to attempt a dash, past the allied warships off the Virginia capes, but that the illness of more than sixty of his sailors with beriberi would make that impossible.

SAYS LAWSON WAS ARMED

Witness Gives Evidence Against Colorado Miner.

Trinidad, Colo., April 27.—Testimony was given at the trial of John R. Lawson, labor leader, charged with murder, that strikers entrenched in a cut on the Colorado and Southern railroad at Ludlow fired more than 250 shots at an automobile which was bringing them a fresh supply of ammunition Oct. 25, 1913.

This testimony was given by Charles Snyder, who said he formerly was a member of the United Mine Workers and had acted as bodyguard for Lawson, who is a member of the mine workers' executive board for district 15.

It was near the railroad cut that John Nimmo, a deputy for whose death Lawson is on trial, was killed and witnesses for the state testified he was shot by men in the cut as he advanced upon the position said to have been held by the strikers just before dark.

FARMERS ARE INTERESTED

Wide Divergency of Views in Equity Co-Operative Case.

Fargo, N. D., April 27.—Farmers of the Northwest expressed widely different emotions regarding the proceedings instituted by Attorney General H. J. Linde against the Equity Co-operative exchange.

Some are sharply indignant that charges of fraud in the operation of the exchange were preferred, while others declared that if the charges are well founded they will lend their support toward such prosecution as will fit the ascertained facts.

It is said that, no matter what the outcome of the hearing on the annulment and receivership proceedings on May 18, the case will go to the state supreme court eventually or be transferred to the federal courts.

MINNESOTAN SENDS CARVING TO WILSON.

Washington, April 27.—President Wilson received an intricately carved wood setting containing his picture from Fingal Anderson, a tubercular convalescent of Minnesota, who said in a letter accompanying the work that he had made it with a jackknife during the period of his illness.

Washington, April 27.—President Wilson received an intricately carved wood setting containing his picture from Fingal Anderson, a tubercular convalescent of Minnesota, who said in a letter accompanying the work that he had made it with a jackknife during the period of his illness.

Thirty or more assessors of the plained the provisions of the various

You can't prevent an attack of hot, tender, swollen feeling, and in a very short time brings relief that have it in the house—against colds,

WHY PEOPLE DON'T DEMAND DEFENSES

Average Citizen Sees No Need
of Nation Entering War.

MUST MIND OWN BUSINESS.

Fred Lynch of Minnesota, Who Aided
Wilson Greatly in Last Convention,
May Be Manager of the Democratic Campaign—Members of Cabinet Are Forced to Various Activities.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, April 22.—[Special.]—
Are the people as a whole interested in this subject of national defense or the peace propaganda? Day after day in mingling with people who are neither connected with the army or navy or the various peace organizations one will find no discussion of the subject one way or another.

In the hotels, the clubs, the stores, the offices and elsewhere men and women in groups and pairs talk about all phases of the European war, but it never seems to occur to them that the United States is unprepared or that this country is never likely to be engaged in war.

Our people do not see any reason why this country should become im-broglied in the old world wars or in other wars. "As long as we mind our own business we will never have to go to war," is a statement that has been made in reply to those who urge greater preparation.

No Need of War.

As a matter of fact there is no need of war now. There was no need of war in 1898. If we had minded our own business instead of taking upon ourselves the business of another nation we need not have gone to war with Spain.

If we continue to mind our own business and do not try to make our Monroe doctrine cover everything on the American continent, including the regulation of the business and lives of the people south of us, we will have no need of war.

If we abandon the "open door" in China or, in other words, say that whatever Japan or any other country does in the orient is no business of ours we will have no need of war in the far east.

It is simply a question of keeping out of the way and letting the rest of the world run the affairs of the world.

Fred Lynch May Be Manager.

It is quite possible that Fred B.
Lynch of Minnesota may be the manager of the Wilson campaign next year.
By appointing a number of political leaders to office the administration has eliminated them from active campaign work. If it should be decided that Chairman McCombs should not manage the campaign it will be necessary to seek some man who is not holding an important federal position. Mc-Adoo, Burleson and Daniels are in the cabinet. A. Mitchell Palmer, Joe Davies and Martin Wade have been selected for positions that will keep them from active political work. The next best man who is foot loose as regards political position is Fred Lynch, member of the national committee from Minnesota. Lynch carried Minnesota for Wilson in 1912, and in spite of all efforts to get his delegation away from Wilson he held them solid during the long, weary ballots. Lynch has the confidence of many men who are close to Wilson.

Two Parties in the Senate.

With the return of Miles Poindexter to the Republican party there will be but two parties in the senate. There are still a few progressive senators, or, rather, Republicans of progressive tendencies, but as a party the Progressives will not be known in the senate.
The Washington state senator has held that title alone for two years.

Cabinet Activities.

Many cabinet officers have been called upon to do work which has been not contemplated when the places were created. For instance, it was never expected that the secretary of war should supervise river and harbor improvements, build the Panama canal or administer the government of 10, 000,000 Malays on the other side of the world. It was never supposed that the secretary of the interior would build railroads in Alaska or construct huge irrigation dams. It was never expected that the postmaster general would have charge of a general carrying business such as the parcel post or manage a great financial institution such as the postals savings banks.

If I cared to enumerate them many curious activities of cabinet officers not contemplated in the formation of the government could be enumerated, all of which goes to show that the evolution of the government of the United States has been wonderful.

Giving Their Answers.

These are times when various men who served long in congress are giving their answers to their people at home.
Some of them have difficult tasks, particularly those Democrats who found themselves under necessity of opposing the policies of the national administration. It is a curious fact that the average man at home cannot forgive his senator or representative for opposing the administration.

DOUBLE SERVICE
AUTOMOBILE TIRES
Guaranteed 7000 Miles Service
ABSOLUTELY PUNCTUREPROOF
Double Service Tires are double the thickness of the best standard make tires.
This 100 per cent greater wearing surface naturally gives that much more mileage and service. The average of 12 miles of tough fabric and one inch surface thread rubber makes these tires
absolutely punctureproof.

These tires excel all others for use in the country over rough and rugged roads as well as on hard pavements. They are as easy riding and resilient as any other pneumatic tire—the air space and pressure being the same.

They are the most economical and "care free" tires made and are used where tires must be depended on and tire troubles cannot be tolerated. Many Double Service style tires are in use in the United States government and European War service.

Our output is limited to a certain amount, but for a short time we offer the following reduced special prices as an introductory offer:

WHY PEOPLE DON'T DEMAND DEFENSES

Average Citizen Sees No Need
of Nation Entering War.

MUST MIND OWN BUSINESS.

Fred Lynch of Minnesota, Who Aided Wilson Greatly in Last Convention, May Be Manager of the Democratic Campaign—Members of Cabinet Are Forced to Various Activities.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, April 23.—[Special.]—Are the people as a whole interested in this subject of national defense or the peace propaganda? Day after day in mingling with people who are neither connected with the army or navy or the various peace organizations one will find no discussion of the subject one way or another.

In the hotels, the clubs, the stores, the offices and elsewhere men and women in groups and pairs talk about all phases of the European war, but it never seems to occur to them that the United States is unprepared or that this country is never likely to be engaged in war.

Our people do not see any reason why this country should become involved in the old world wars or in other wars. "As long as we mind our own business we will never have to go to war," is a statement that has been made in reply to those who urge greater preparation.

No Need of War.

As a matter of fact there is no need of war now. There was no need of war in 1898. If we had minded our own business instead of taking upon ourselves the business of another nation we need not have gone to war with Spain.

If we continue to mind our own business and do not try to make our Monroe doctrine cover everything on the American continent, including the regulation of the business and lives of the people south of us, we will have no need of war.

If we abandon the "open door" in China or, in other words, say that whatever Japan or any other country does in the orient is no business of ours we will have no need of war in the far east.

It is simply a question of keeping out of the way and letting the rest of the world run the affairs of the world.

Fred Lynch May Be Manager.

It is quite possible that Fred B. Lynch of Minnesota may be the manager of the Wilson campaign next year. By appointing a number of political leaders to office the administration has eliminated them from active campaign work. If it should be decided that Chairman McCombs should not manage the campaign it will be necessary to seek some man who is not holding an important federal position. McAdoo, Burleson and Daniels are in the cabinet. A. Mitchell Palmer, Joe Davies and Martin Wade have been selected for positions that will keep them from active political work. The next best man who is foot loose as regards political position is Fred Lynch, member of the national committee from Minnesota. Lynch carried Minnesota for Wilson in 1912, and in spite of all efforts to get his delegation away from Wilson he held them solid during the long, weary ballots. Lynch has the confidence of many men who are close to Wilson.

Two Parties in the Senate.

With the return of Miles Poindexter to the Republican party there will be but two parties in the senate. There are still a few progressive senators, or, rather, Republicans of progressive tendencies, but as a party the Progressives will not be known in the senate. The Washington state senator has held that title alone for two years.

Cabinet Activities.

Many cabinet officers have been called upon to do work which was not contemplated when the places were created. For instance, it was never expected that the secretary of war should supervise river and harbor improvements, build the Panama canal or administer the government of 10,000,000 Malays on the other side of the world. It was never supposed that the secretary of the interior would build railroads in Alaska or construct huge irrigation dams. It was never expected that the postmaster general would have charge of a general carrying business such as the parcel post or manage a great financial institution such as the postals savings banks.

If I cared to enumerate them many curious activities of cabinet officers not contemplated in the formation of the government could be enumerated, all of which goes to show that the evolution of the government of the United States has been wonderful.

Giving Their Answers.

These are times when various men who served long in congress are giving their answers to their people at home. Some of them have difficult tasks, particularly those Democrats who found themselves under necessity of opposing the policies of the national administration. It is a curious fact that the average man at home cannot forgive his senator or representative for opposing the administration.

DOUBLE SERVICE
AUTOMOBILE TIRES
Guaranteed 7000 Miles Service
ABSOLUTELY PUNCTUREPROOF
Double Service Tires are double the thickness of the best standard make tires.
This 100 per cent greater wearing surface naturally gives that much more mileage and service. The average of 12 miles of tough fabric and one inch surface thread rubber makes these tires absolutely punctureproof.

These tires excel all others for use in the country over rough and rugged roads as well as on hard pavements. They are as easy riding and resilient as any other pneumatic tire—the air space and pressure being the same.
They are the most economical and "care free" tires made and are used where tires must be depended on and tire troubles cannot be tolerated. Many Double Service style tires are in use in the United States government and European War service.

Our output is limited to a certain amount, but for a short time we offer the following reduced special prices as an Introductory Offer:

MUSIC AND DRAMA

"Chocolate Soldier"

Butterflies have always been favorites as decorative designs in jewelry, and there are butterfly bows and butterfly capes, butterfly kimonos and butterfly frocks.

Tena Rasband, prima donna of "The Chocolate Soldier" has adopted the most poetic of flying creatures as a mascot and the inventory of her wardrobe would sound like the notebook of some enthusiastic nature student after a day's outing with his butterfly net. Miss Rasband's slippers for evening wear are ornamented with butterflies of jet, or gold or silver. One jet butterfly in particular has gauze wings which form the upper portion of her slipper, its body covering the toe, the tips of the wings meeting at the back of the slipper.

For her hair, the singer has several exquisite ornaments in the form of butterflies of filigree, silver and gold. One ornament is made of five butterflies of graduated sizes, so that at every movement of the wearer's head the sparkling insects flutter as if about to take flight.

In the corner of each of her cobweb handkerchiefs is a tiny butterfly and on her note paper in the left-hand upper corner is a golden butterfly instead of the usual monogram or coat-of-arms. At Brainerd opera house, Tuesday evening, May 4.

"Peg O' My Heart"

Last season's most alluring success, J. Hartley Manners' comedy, "Peg O' My Heart" with Peggy O'Neill and the New York-Chicago cast are scheduled for an engagement at the Brainerd opera house, Saturday evening, May 8.

This refreshing play comes almost direct from seven months in Chicago and from two years at the Cort theatre in New York. It is easy to understand the success of "Peg O' My Heart" for this enjoyable comedy has the breath of life, tells a story of both sorrows and joys of a slip of a lass called Peg. A story with wit, delightful comedy, natural characters and unforced situations.

Those in support of Peggy O'Neill are Emelle Melville, Henry Stanford, Lillian Kemble Cooper, Reginald Mason, Roland Hogue, Clarence Hendy, Grace Hasenier, Gordon Burby and Michael, the dog actor.

ATTRACTIVE ROOMS.

Simplicity, Comfort and Good Taste
Should Reign Through the Home.

No room in the house has greater possibilities of remodeling, especially if old fashioned and in need of freshening, than the living room. It is the heart of the home, where throb the collective activities, intelligences and pleasures of the household. It should never be the expression of the taste or hobby of an "individual," but a harmonious whole which is the outcome of one mind striking fire from another, a particular talent, fraternizing with its brother talents, a neutral ground where every hobby makes room for his neighbor.

A neutral ground. That is the keynote. And neutrality combines simplicity with diplomacy, comfort and good taste.

It should be simplicity itself because a cluttered room, whether it be the clutter of too many designs and colors in rugs, wall paper, hangings or woodwork or an endless conglomeration of furniture and bric-a-brac, is never attractive nor restful. An empty space is far better than an ugly, useless piece of furniture, and this also applies to ornaments. A simply furnished room should be able to stand the "homey" disorder which is bound to take place in a home of varied activities and tastes. Open, half read books, tumbled cushions, magazines and newspapers, sheets of music, bits of sewing and the masculine touch of a pipe or two contribute its greatest attraction—"the home atmosphere."

The living room should be comfortable and restful to mind, eye and body with solid, well made furniture, carefully placed and shaded lights, soft neutral tinted walls, low toned rugs and hangings, never so intricate nor conspicuous in design or color that they create restlessness by torturing the eye of the beholder. Easily accessible books, a capacious desk or writing table and a sofa designed for use and equipped with cushions for use and not for show. No cushion has an excuse for being save the one with an easily laundered cover against which the head can rest without the uneasy feeling that possibly you may be soiling it or with the still more disturbing feeling that it may be already in that condition.

The sofa pictured here was in a room which had been recently finished over. All the pieces were of walnut and were upholstered in a tapestry in which the predominating shade was a brown a trifle lighter than the walnut framework and was figured with brownish leaves like the soft brown often seen when oak trees have donned their autumnal coloring. The cushions were all of washable materials in the same tints.

A FEW DON'TS

FOR PARENTS.

Don't forget that children, like plants, suffer seriously from want of sunlight.

Don't forget that children are more seriously affected by impure air than grown people.

Don't let the nursery be used as a laundry nor a larder. Food should never be kept in it.

Don't forget that lowered vitality makes children more liable to catch any infectious disease.

Don't say "don't" to your little one. Remember to tell the child what he is to do, not what he is not to do.

Don't forget that little children are easily depressed by gloomy surroundings, and this lowers their vitality.

Don't forget that you sometimes do harm to your children by doing too much for them. There are things that it is far better to teach the children to do for themselves.

Don't shake or scold a child who wakes up and cries out in the night. Often night terrors are a purely nervous affection and any harshness only makes matters worse.

Don't think that money is wasted in buying pretty paper and bright colored paint for the decorations of the nursery. Money spent on brightening life at its opening will bear good interest in health and happiness.

Don't think that any room in the house will do for the nursery, as "it's only for the children." The sunniest, most airy and most cheerful room in the house should be given to the children if you want them to be healthy.

When Cylinders Misfire.

As a rule, when misfiring occurs in one cylinder at slow speed and firing is right at fast speed the fault consists of too wide a spark gap in the plug of that cylinder.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

Woolen materials can be cleaned with a dry rubber sponge, care being taken to rub the wrong side of the nap.

Nothing makes better wash cloths than white stockings cut open. The edges may be finished with pink or blue crochet.

For salad dressing three tablespoons of oil, one and one-half of vinegar, quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, one-eighth of pepper.

If you keep a canary see that his cage is spotlessly clean. It is better for his health as well as for the cheerful aspect of the room.

Make a batter with six ounces of flour, one egg and three-quarters pint of milk or milk and water. Pour over the meat and bake for one hour. For serving cut in squares and pile on a hot dish.

New dishes are not so apt to break if they are put into a pan of hot water and set on the stove. Let the water come slowly to a boil. Then take them off the stove and when the water is cool take them out. After this you can put them in as hot water as you wish and have no fear of cracking them.

Delicious Baked Custard.—Boil an ounce of rice in a pint of milk until the latter is quite creamy. Then strain out the rice, sweeten the milk to taste and add a well beaten egg. Pour into a jug and proceed as directed in the above recipe. This is both economical and nourishing, also suitable for delicate folk or children.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

"Chocolate Soldier"

Butterflies have always been favorites as decorative designs in jewelry, and there are butterfly bows and butterfly capes, butterfly kimonos and butterfly frocks.

Tena Rasband, prima donna of "The Chocolate Soldier" has adopted the most poetic of flying creatures as a mascot and the inventory of her wardrobe would sound like the notebook of some enthusiastic nature student after a day's outing with his butterfly net. Miss Rasband's slippers for evening wear are ornamented with butterflies of jet, or gold or silver. One jet butterfly in particular has gauze wings which form the upper portion of her slipper, its body covering the toe, the tips of the wings meeting at the back of the slipper.

For her hair, the singer has several exquisite ornaments in the form of butterflies of filigree, silver and gold. One ornament is made of five butterflies of graduated sizes, so that at every movement of the wearer's head the sparkling insects flutter as if about to take flight.

In the corner of each of her cobweb handkerchiefs is a tiny butterfly and on her note paper in the left-hand upper corner is a golden butterfly instead of the usual monogram or coat-of-arms. At Brainerd opera house, Tuesday evening, May 4.

"Peg O' My Heart"

Last season's most alluring success, J. Hartley Manners' comedy, "Peg O' My Heart" with Peggy O'Neill and the New York-Chicago cast are scheduled for an engagement at the Brainerd opera house, Saturday evening, May 8.

This refreshing play comes almost direct from seven months in Chicago and from two years at the Cort theatre in New York. It is easy to understand the success of "Peg O' My Heart" for this enjoyable comedy has the breath of life, tells a story of both sorrows and joys of a slip of a lass called Peg. A story with wit, delightful comedy, natural characters and unforced situations.

Those in support of Peggy O'Neill are Emelie Melville, Henry Stanford, Lillian Kemble Cooper, Reginald Mason, Roland Hogue, Clarence Hendy, Grace Hasenier, Gordon Burby and Michael, the dog actor.

Mozart Study Club

The "Mozart Study Club" met at the home of Mrs. W. A. M. Johnstone last night. An excellent Chopin programme was given and each number was well rendered.

MISS MUNSON IN REAL LIFE

Miss Munson as She is Today

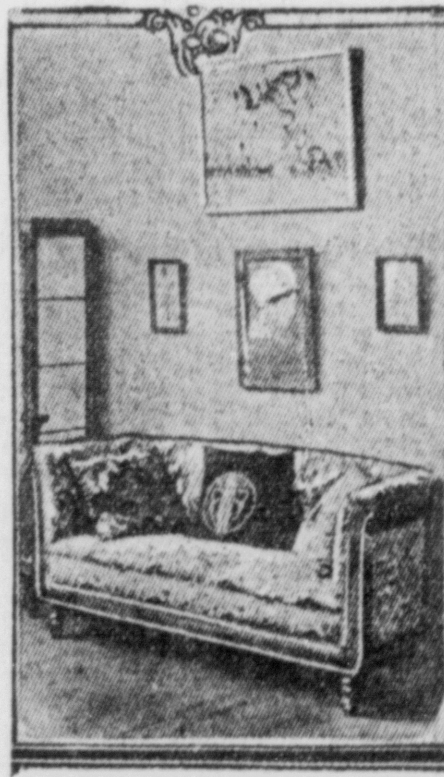

Nude statues of Miss Audrey Munson at the Panama Pacific International Exposition in San Francisco have become the cause of a dispute between the artists and the prudens. A really serious effort is being made by some persons to have these works of art removed, works executed by some of the best American sculptors. The photograph shown here represents Miss Munson in real life. The comparison is interesting and striking. It shows that it is possible even for a woman of perfect figure to dress herself becomingly, despite the demands of modern fashion.

ATTRACTIVE ROOMS.

Simplicity, Comfort and Good Taste
Should Reign Through the Home.

No room in the house has greater possibilities of remodeling, especially if old fashioned and in need of freshening, than the living room. It is the heart of the home, where throb the collective activities, intelligences and pleasures of the household. It should never be the expression of the taste or hobby of an "individual," but a harmonious whole which is the outcome of one mind striking fire from another, a particular talent, fraternizing with its brother talents, a neutral ground where every hobby makes room for his neighbor.

A neutral ground. That is the keynote. And neutrality combines simplicity with diplomacy, comfort and good taste.

It should be simplicity itself because a cluttered room, whether it be the clutter of too many designs and colors in rugs, wall paper, hangings or woodwork or an endless conglomeration of furniture and bric-a-brac, is never attractive nor restful. An empty space is far better than an ugly, useless piece of furniture, and this also applies to ornaments. A simply furnished room should be able to stand the "homey" disorder which is bound to take place in a home of varied activities and tastes. Open, half read books, tumbled cushions, magazines and newspapers, sheets of music, bits of sewing and the masculine touch of a pipe or two contribute its greatest attraction—the home atmosphere.

The living room should be comfortable and restful to mind, eye and body with solid, well made furniture, carefully placed and shaded lights, soft neutral tinted walls, low toned rugs and hangings, never so intricate nor

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

Woolen materials can be cleaned with a dry rubber sponge, care being taken to rub the wrong side of the nap. Nothing makes better wash cloths than white stockings cut open. The edges may be finished with pink or blue crochet.

For salad dressing three tablespoonfuls of oil, one and one-half of vinegar, quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, one-eighth of pepper.

If you keep a canary see that his cage is spotlessly clean. It is better for his health as well as for the cheerful aspect of the room.

Make a batter with six ounces of flour, one egg and three-quarters pint of milk or milk and water. Pour over the meat and bake for one hour. For serving cut in squares and pile on a hot dish.

New dishes are not so apt to break if they are put into a pan of hot water and set on the stove. Let the water come slowly to a boil. Then take them off the stove and when the water is cool take them out. After this you can put them in as hot water as you wish and have no fear of cracking them.

Delicious Baked Custard.—Boil an ounce of rice in a pint of milk until the latter is quite creamy. Then strain out the rice, sweeten the milk to taste and add a well beaten egg. Pour into a jug and proceed as directed in the above recipe. This is both economical and nourishing, also suitable for delicate folk or children.

A BETTER DIGESTION

AND LIVER FOR YOU

It's bad blood that makes your liver sluggish and the same bad blood causes your stomach muscles to lose their elasticity and become flabby and weak and that means indigestion.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, purely vegetable and free from alcohol or narcotics, is the great and powerful blood purifier of today. Its extracts from American forest roots with pure triple refined glycerine.

Take it as directed and it will search out impure and poisonous matter throughout the system and eliminate it through the natural channels.

It will penetrate into the joints and muscles, and dissolve the poisonous accumulations. It will replace all the bad blood it drives out, with rich, pure blood full of vital force. It will furnish you with the kind of blood that increases energy and ambition, that puts the entire body in such perfect physical condition that brain or muscles know no fatigue.

It will clear the skin; eczema, pimples, rash, blotches will dry up and disappear; boils, carbuncles and other evidences of tainted blood will pass away, never to appear again.

Get Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery from any medicine dealer today, in either liquid or tablet form, as you prefer. It's the one great blood maker and purifier that all weak or run down people ought to start to use at once. If you want good blood, good health and clear skin, get a supply today.—Adv.

A FEW DON'TS

FOR PARENTS.

Don't forget that children, like plants, suffer seriously from want of sunlight.

Don't forget that children are more seriously affected by impure air than grown people.

Don't let the nursery be used as a laundry nor a larder. Food should never be kept in it.

Don't forget that lowered vitality makes children more liable to catch any infectious disease.

Don't say "don't" to your little one. Remember to tell the child what he is to do, not what he is not to do.

Don't forget that little children are easily depressed by gloomy surroundings, and this lowers their vitality.

Don't forget that you sometimes do harm to your children by doing too much for them. There are things that it is far better to teach the children to do for themselves.

Don't shake or scold a child who wakes up and cries out in the night. Often night terrors are a purely nervous affection and any harshness only makes matters worse.

Don't think that money is wasted in buying pretty paper and bright colored paint for the decorations of the nursery. Money spent on brightening life at its opening will bear good interest in health and happiness.

Don't think that any room in the house will do for the nursery, as "it's only for the children." The sunniest, most airy and most cheerful room in the house should be given to the children if you want them to be healthy.

FROM BRITISH FRONT

By William G. Shepherd,
United Press Staff Correspondent

Headquarters of the British Oversea Army, Northern France, April 25, via London, April 26.—The Germans are now bombarding Ypres with seventeen-inch guns. The roar of these great pieces of artillery, latest product of the Krupp factories, can be heard thirty miles. German incendiary shells have fired all of the Belgian farms and villages along a front of twenty miles. Tonight the sky is illuminated with the glare from the blazing horses and barns.

The high northerly winds which for three days have been blowing from the German lines across the Anglo-French-Belgian trenches carrying before them the stupefying gases have now died down. There is complete calm tonight and the tempo of the Allied troops over what they claim the most flagrant breach of the rules of civilized warfare by the Germans is most bitter. From the highest officer down to the last joined private the most bitter invective is being used against the Germans.

"I believe now that the Germans actually did massacre the Belgian people," snapped a Canadian officer of high rank whom I saw in the field hospital and who was suffering from the effects of the gas. Many of the Canadians who are in the hospitals are suffering from gas fumes. The entire Canadian contingent was engaged and all are the recipients of unstinted praise from General French and his staff for the part they played in the battle.

With the British Army in Northern France, April 16 (by mail to New York)—A mile back from Neuve Chapelle we got out of our automobile. On our left was a farmhouse with the roof blown off, on our right a way side shrine, the floor covered with straw, on which soldiers sleep at the foot. An English colonel takes the three of us in tow.

"We'll go in twos" he said "keep your distance apart. They never shell a couple of men, but if they see four of us together, they might try to drop a shell on us."

We passed three ruined farms. In the yard of one, hyacinths are blooming at the doorway of the roofless house.

"Now, over across this farm," says the Colonel, and we turn off the road and follow a broad beaten path. This path is going to be written down in history some time. It was beaten down by the feet of the British soldiers who marched to the trenches that night of March 9th and waited until the signal was given in the morning, to rush the trenches, that rush before the village of Neuve Chapelle. Frederick Villiers, who has drawn sketches in 16 wars and is now on his seventeenth steps to make a sketch. "If you don't mind," says the colonel quietly. "We won't stop here. There's a house ahead of us there and we can stop behind that."

"Why, are the Germans near here?" says Villiers. "They are right over those trees," says the officer. But he doesn't hurry us on. He's used to it.

The trouble about this war is that you never know you are on a battle field until someone who knows about it tells you so. The English artillery is booming behind us; the shells drill their long hollow echoing tunnels through the air. But in all the flat land around us broken now and then only by the ruins of shelled houses, there is not a sign of human life, except our shells.

We reached the shelter of the house and Villiers does his sketch the colonel says "That's Father a bud stretch across there. I loose a man every now and then from bullets that fly over the embankments of our trenches. It's worse along toward evening than it is now, because then the Germans can't pick out our trench lines in the gloom and many of their shells go wild at dusk."

We start off down a road, we come to a portico. Huge piles of sandbags form a gateway and walls of sandbags stretch to the right and left of the road. We pass through this gateway, on our right we see that the piles of sandbags shift and run parallel with the roads.

PLAN BANK DEFENSE CASE

Government Attorneys to Argue There Was Nothing Unlawful.

Washington, April 27.—Counsel for Secretary McAdoo and Comptroller of the Currency Williams have completed preliminary plans for the defense to be made when the Riggs National bank injunction proceedings are taken up in the District of Columbia supreme court May 12.

The government lawyers are expected to base their defense largely on the ground that there has been no conspiracy between Mr. McAdoo and Mr. Williams to injure the bank; that anything they have appeared to do in concert was lawfully done and with entire propriety.

RUNNING A BLOCKADE.

Rules That Usually Govern This Exciting Wartime Sea Game.

Although their operations are drastic and unpleasant, blockades and blockade runners have always been among the most picturesque and dramatic aspects of a great war.

Blockades can be applied either to an enemy's town or fortress or to a port or series of ports on an enemy's coast. It has, in a naval sense, two effects. It brings pressure to bear on an enemy within their own gates and thus at preventing the import or export of provisions, articles of trade, ammunition or re-enforcements. It also makes it unlawful for neutrals to trade with those particular ports.

As a consequence, certain precautions are usually observed. It is, for instance, held that for a valid blockade not only should a state of war exist, but that the blockading party should maintain a force sufficient to prevent access to the blockaded port or, at all events, powerful enough to render the passage of a relief ship extremely hazardous. Further, it is essential that neutral nations should have proper notice of the existence of the blockade either by official notice or by warning given to neutral vessels on their arrival outside the prohibited zone.

Nations differ as to what constitutes an effective blockade. All countries, however, agree that a blockading force may seize any vessel with its cargo trying to trade with a blockaded port and can send it home for condemnation. Even if a vessel succeeds in breaking through a blockade it can be pursued and, if possible, captured.

A vessel may, for the sake of humanity—suppose her crew is starving or she is in danger of sinking—be allowed to enter a blockaded port. Mail steamers also if they do not carry contraband, are permitted to go in and out.—Pearson's Weekly.

Eye Strain.

There are two common kinds of eye strain. It is a strain for a person who is farsighted to do close work, and it is a strain for one who is nearsighted to use the eyes for distances. Both kinds of eye strain produce the same symptoms—headache—and both require that the eyes be examined and glasses be provided.

There are the Syracuse men who must say whether or not Theodore Roosevelt libeled William Barnes, Jr., in the statement he made last fall during the campaign for governor in New York state. Trial Brings Out
Much Inside History

(By United Press)

Syracuse, N. Y., April 27.—Much hidden republican history during Platt's regime was further bared this afternoon at the Roosevelt-Barnes trial. Fifty letters were placed in evidence showing alliance between Roosevelt and Barnes. The Roosevelt letters disclosed that the writer and Platt decided not to permit his (Roosevelt's) name to be used for vice president, as it was necessary for him to become governor again. In one letter Platt referred to "our friends," the New York Central desiring tax exemption legislation. Roosevelt replying that he was exceedingly sorry that the railroad was having hardship but that he was unable to prevent the taxation plans. Letters showed that Roosevelt and Platt were friends long after Roosevelt became president, and often conferred concerning New York politics.

TENNIS STARS IN
BIG TOURNEYSAbsence of Cup Matches Means
Large Entry Lists.

McLOUGHLIN AFTER HONORS.

National Champion Will Try Hard to Land Western Title and Several Cups on Which He Has Two Legs—Big Season in Store for Players.

The tennis world is confronted with two momentous facts this year which render predictions easy on one hand, while on the other there exists a doubt. The war has eliminated any possibility of the Davis cup matches, so it can be safely presumed that the foremost players in the country will participate in more tournaments than if they were forced to train for the international competitions. With this condition it is only necessary to glance over the country where the largest tournaments are held to discover which ones will attract the western players, Maurice E. McLoughlin, R. Lindley Murray, William Johnston, or such players of lesser ability as Ella Fottrell, Clarence Griffin and John Strachan.

When a player has won two legs on a challenge cup, valuable because of the many names engraved upon it, he is apt to consider pointing for the place where that tournament is held with the idea in mind of attempting to carry the prize away. At Lake Forest, just outside of Chicago, the western championships are held, usually late in July, and McLoughlin has won two legs on a challenge trophy there that the Onwentsia club donated to the Western Tennis association. The past two years he has been unable to participate in this tournament because of the international matches, but this year, on his way east to New York, it is fair to predict that he will stop off in Chicago and attempt to have his name placed for the third and last time on the time honored trophy.

Leaving Chicago, McLoughlin could arrive in good time to defend his title at Longwood, for the western championship and the Longwood tournament are generally held during successive weeks in July. After Longwood the New York state championship is held at Bay Ridge, but McLoughlin will likely rest that week and enter the Southampton tournament in preparation for the national championship in New York. McLoughlin is training at this present moment for the national title which he lost to R. N. Williams last year at Newport. No other tournaments will interfere with the "California Comet's" plans as concerns his physical and mental efficiency, which he knows full well must be at the highest standard during the progress of the national championship.

R. L. Murray will probably be the man selected by the Pacific Coast Tennis association to follow the same course laid down for McLoughlin. There is a likelihood that these men before many years may represent the country in doubles. At present McLoughlin, paired with T. C. Bundy, holds the national doubles title, but the latter player is hampered more each year by business engagements.

We passed three ruined farms. In the yard of one, hyacinths are blooming at the doorway of the roofless house.

"Now, over across this farm," says the colonel, and we turn off the road and follow a broad beaten path. This path is going to be written down in history some time. It was beaten down by the feet of the British soldiers who marched to the trenches that night of March 9th and waited until the signal was given in the morning, to rush the trenches, that rush before the village of Neuve Chapelle. Frederick Villiers, who has drawn sketches in 16 wars and is now on his seventeenth stops to make a sketch. "If you don't mind," says the colonel quietly, "We won't stop here. There's a house ahead of us there and we can stop behind that."

"Why, are the Germans near here?" says Villiers. "They are right over those trees," says the officer. But he doesn't hurry us on. He's used to it.

The trouble about this war is that you never know you are on a battle field until someone who knows about it tells you so. The English artillery is booming behind us; the shells drill their long hollow echoing tunnels through the air. But in all the flat land around us broken now and then only by the ruins of shelled houses, there is not a sign of human life, except our shells.

We reached the shelter of the house and Villiers does his sketch the colonel says "That's Father a bad stretch across there. I lose a man every now and then from bullets that fly over the embankments of our trenches. It's worse along toward evening than it is now, because then the Germans can't pick out our trench lines in the gloom and many of their shells go wild at dusk."

We start off down a road, we come to a portico. Huge piles of sandbags form a gateway and walls of sandbags stretch to the right and left of the road. We pass through this gateway, on our right we see that the piles of sandbags shift and run parallel with the roads.

PLAN BANK DEFENSE CASE

Government Attorneys to Argue There Was Nothing Unlawful.

Washington, April 27—Counsel for Secretary McAdoo and Comptroller of the Currency Williams have completed preliminary plans for the defense to be made when the Riggs National bank injunction proceedings are taken up in the District of Columbia supreme court May 12.

The government lawyers are expected to base their defense largely on the ground that there has been no conspiracy between Mr. McAdoo and Mr. Williams to injure the bank; that anything they have appeared to do in concert was lawfully done and with entire propriety.

RUNNING A BLOCKADE.

Rules That Usually Govern This Exciting Wartime Sea Game.

Although their operations are drastic and unpleasant, blockades and blockade runners have always been among the most picturesque and dramatic aspects of a great war.

Blockades can be applied either to an enemy's town or fortress or to a port or series of ports on an enemy's coast. It has, in a naval sense, two effects. It brings pressure to bear on an enemy within their own gates and thus at preventing the import or export of provisions, articles of trade, ammunition or re-enforcements. It also makes it unlawful for neutrals to trade with those particular ports.

As a consequence, certain precautions are usually observed. It is, for instance, held that for a valid blockade not only should a state of war exist, but that the blockading party should maintain a force sufficient to prevent access to the blockaded port or, at all events, powerful enough to render the passage of a relief ship extremely hazardous. Further, it is essential that neutral nations should have proper notice of the existence of the blockade either by official notice or by warning given to neutral vessels on their arrival outside the prohibited zone.

Nations differ as to what constitutes an effective blockade. All countries, however, agree that a blockading force may seize any vessel with its cargo trying to trade with a blockaded port and can send it home for condemnation. Even if a vessel succeeds in breaking through a blockade it can be pursued and, if possible, captured.

A vessel may, for the sake of humanity—suppose her crew is starving or she is in danger of sinking—be allowed to enter a blockaded port. Mail steamers also if they do not carry contraband, are permitted to go in and out.—Pearson's Weekly.

Eye Strain.

There are two common kinds of eye strain. It is a strain for a person who is farsighted to do close work, and it is a strain for one who is nearsighted to use the eyes for distances. Both kinds of eye strain produce the same symptoms—headache—and both require that the eyes be examined and glasses be provided.

There are the Syracuse men who must say whether or not Theodore Roosevelt libeled William Barnes, Jr., in the statement he made last fall during the campaign for governor in New York state. Then the former President charged that Chas. F. Murphy, the democratic boss, and Mr. Barnes, the republican boss, of their respective state machines worked harmoniously whenever they were in danger.

Trial Brings Out
Much Inside History

(By United Press)

Syracuse, N. Y., April 27—Much hidden republican history during Platt's regime was further bared this afternoon at the Roosevelt-Barnes trial. Fifty letters were placed in evidence showing alliance between Roosevelt and Barnes. The Roosevelt letters disclosed that the writer and Platt decided not to permit his (Roosevelt's) name to be used for vice president, as it was necessary for him to become governor again. In one letter Platt referred to "our friends," the New York Central desiring tax exemption legislation, Roosevelt replying that he was exceedingly sorry that the railroad was having hardship but that he was unable to prevent the taxation plans. Letters showed that Roosevelt and Platt were friends long after Roosevelt became president, and often conferred concerning New York politics.

TENNIS STARS IN
BIG TOURNEYSAbsence of Cup Matches Means
Large Entry Lists.

McLOUGHLIN AFTER HONORS.

National Champion Will Try Hard to Land Western Title and Several Cups on Which He Has Two Legs—Big Season in Store For Players.

The tennis world is confronted with two momentous facts this year which render predictions easy on one hand, while on the other there exists a doubt. The war has eliminated any possibility of the Davis cup matches, so it can be safely presumed that the foremost players in the country will participate in more tournaments than if they were forced to train for the international competitions. With this condition it is only necessary to glance over the country where the largest tournaments are held to discover which ones will attract the western players, Maurice E. McLoughlin, R. Lindley Murray, William Johnston, or such players of lesser ability as Ella Fottrell, Clarence Griffin and John Strachan.

When a player has won two legs on a challenge cup, valuable because of the many names engraved upon it, he is apt to consider pointing for the place where that tournament is held with the idea in mind of attempting to carry the prize away. At Lake Forest, just outside of Chicago, the western championships are held, usually late in July, and McLoughlin has won two legs on a challenge trophy there that the Onwenta club donated to the Western Tennis association. The past two years he has been unable to participate in this tournament because of the international matches, but this year, on his way east to New York, it is fair to predict that he will stop off in Chicago and attempt to have his name placed for the third and last time on the time honored trophy.

Leaving Chicago, McLoughlin could arrive in good time to defend his title at Longwood, for the western championship and the Longwood tournament are generally held during successive weeks in July. After Longwood the New York state championship is held at Bay Ridge, but McLoughlin will likely rest that week and enter the Southampton tournament in preparation for the national championship in New York. McLoughlin is training at this present moment for the national title which he lost to R. N. Williams last year at Newport. No other tournaments will interfere with the "California Comet's" plans as concerns his physical and mental efficiency, which he knows full well must be at the highest standard during the progress of the national championship.

R. L. Murray will probably be the man selected by the Pacific Coast Tennis association to follow the same course laid down for McLoughlin. There is a likelihood that these men before many years may represent the country in doubles. At present McLoughlin, paired with T. C. Bundy, holds the national doubles title, but the latter player is hampered more each year by business engagements.

A crisis has been reached in the dog license situation in Brainerd. Whereas there are about 500 canines of various kind, high and low degree, more or less, in Brainerd and its appendances, the city clerk, A. Mahlum, has received but $26, or pay on 26 licenses.

A yard or more of the brass checks repose on a long wire below the desk at the city clerk's office and that string has not lost a check for months. Something must be done, at least out of deference to the 26 honest, law abiding citizens who have paid their dollars like a man and pinned 26 brass tags on their respective 26 dogs.

In the meantime some 500 dogs clutter up the streets, and it appears that nobody cares to enforce the law ordering payment of the dog tax. The city needs money and here is a fertile field, just waiting to be raked over to give an abundant yield of ready cash.

The writer paid his dog tax so that he is able to lift his voice, like his dog, in righteous indignation at the wrongs of others.

FOR CONCERT IN BRAINERD

Minneapolis Municipal Band Writes Mayor Henning if Concert Can be Arranged Here

DIRECTOR JOSEPH SAINTON

Writes He Would Like to Include Brainerd in Tour—Talent from Big Symphony Orchestra

Mayor R. A. Henning has received a letter from Joseph Sainton, director of the Minneapolis Municipal band, regarding the inclusion of Brainerd in the summer tour of the musical organization.

Mr. Sainton writes that a tour is being arranged extending from June 10 to the 20th in the cities of the iron range and that he would like to include Brainerd if the municipality would engage the band for one or two concerts either alone or in conjunction with two well known vocalists who tour with the organization.

The newly organized Minneapolis Municipal band consists of thirty-six musicians containing the best talent of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra.

The Minneapolis Journal says of the band that the Minneapolis park band at Lake Harriet this summer will be the highest-priced band ever employed for park concerts and also the best band, in the unanimous opinion of members of the privileged committee of the park board, which authorizes the hiring of the members proposed yesterday by Director Joseph Sainton.

All but two of the 35 band members are now in the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra.

By giving publicity to the letter of Director Sainton, Mayor Henning believed that various forces and organizations in Brainerd might get together and secure this band for a concert.

CRIBBAGE CLUB NO. 2

Completes Series of 150 Games, L. A. McCulloch Winning with 17,329 to His Credit

Brainerd Cribbage Club No. 2 has just completed a series of 150 games at the residence of Wm. T. McCloskey on Friday evening. The following is the standing of the members for the season:

L. A. McCulloch	17,329
W. T. McCloskey	17,019
L. S. Budd	17,017
B. S. Armstrong	16,760
J. C. Higbe	16,695
John Holvick	16,698

L. A. McCulloch made the highest score attained in a single evening, a perfect score of 1210 points, or winning ten straight games. This has not been duplicated in Brainerd for several years.

Following the close of the games the members were treated to a very gratifying six course dinner served by the wives of the several members of the club at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. John Holvick.

L. S. Budd, being chairman of the club, appointed J. C. Higbe toastmaster of the evening. All enjoyed the sumptuous repast.

Following the close of the entertainment each one of the ladies was presented with a beautiful hand-painted plate enclosed in a burnished wood box.

THE LEGISLATIVE JUNKET IN JUNE

From 75 to 100 Members to Tour Northern Minnesota and to Visit Brainerd Too

GUESTS AT GLENGARRY OF

Senator P. H. McGarry—Party Expected in Brainerd June 21—Should be Entertained

Under the leadership of Senator P. H. McGarry, of Walker, there has been formed a party of 75 to 100 senators and representatives who will take a special train from Minneapolis June 8 and visit Northern Minnesota.

Many of the members will be from the southern part of the state and the junket will serve as a means of instructing them in regard to conditions and resources of the northern section of Minnesota.

Their itinerary includes Duluth and the Mesaba range, International Falls, a voyage on the Lake of the Woods.

At Waikiki a two days' visit will be made at Glengarry, summer resort of Senator P. H. McGarry, who will entertain them in that whole-hearted manner as only a host like Mr. McGarry can.

The entire delegation, says Senator George H. Gardner, will visit Brainerd on June 21, and steps should be taken to provide suitable entertainment for the distinguished guests.

Hon. E. J. Westlake, of Minneapolis, will have charge of transportation and will be the chief traffic agent.

STOLE SAFETY VALVE

Thieves Steal and Do Damage at John R. Harrington's Drill on the Holland Land

"Some party or parties on Sunday past," says John R. Harrington, who is drilling the Holland eighty in the northeast section of Brainerd, "was mean enough to go to our drill and take away our safety valve and steam gauge which was attached to the boiler. They also caused all the water to be drawn off from the boiler which would have caused the boiler to be burned had we not noticed that the water was drawn from it before making fire in the same."

"I am pleased at all times to give the people of Brainerd all the information they desire regarding our drillings on the Holland lands and I wish that they in return would kindly leave our machinery alone."

"I also wish to state that I do not believe that it was children that did this mean act, but some party who has had experience about machinery, as wrenches were used to remove the steam gauge and safety valve."

"Mr. Harrington reports that exploration work is now being carried on in Hole No. 2 about 700 feet southeast of Hole No. 1. They are still in ore at a depth of 246 feet. The ore is low grade, but a better grade, it is hoped, will soon be found."

FOR STREET INTERSECTIONS

One of the Problems Confronting Many Cities in Paying for These Improvements

METHODS WHICH ARE IN VOGUE

General Practice is for the City to Bear the Expense, Paying for Same from General Fund

"The matter of street intersections and their payment is of interest to Brainerd people," said Alderman D. A. Peterson, chairman of the street committee.

"The pamphlet of the proceedings of the second annual convention of the League of Minnesota Municipalities has a chapter devoted to street intersections which reveals some of the practices in payment for such improvements. The article states:

"One of the problems which confronts many cities having very similar charter provisions, but resulting in different practices, is the payment of intersections, especially in paying improvements."

"The general practice is for the city to bear the expense, paying for it out of the general or paying intersection fund. This is done in Crookston, Duluth, Minneapolis, Owatonna, Northfield, Winona, Albert Lea, Fergus Falls, Stillwater, Moorhead, Red Wing, Bemidji, Little Falls, Morris, St. Peter, Staples and to some extent in St. Paul."

"Note however, these exceptions and a tendency to recede to the practice of assessing intersections."

"St. Paul has tried both methods and the court sustained her once where a paving assessment was made assessing some intersections and omitting others, the court contenting itself with the remark that the board undoubtedly had some good reason for finding differences in benefits. St. Paul's usual procedure is to divide the total cost, including intersections, by the number of front feet and assessing accordingly. Another method is to pay for the improvement out of the street intersection fund. Both methods are in use at the present time."

"These methods are considered fair by property owners, and are accepted without protest."

O. H. Johnson, Proprietor of Ransford, Takes the Bull by the Horns This Morning

Some of the most high priced street labor ever seen in action in Brainerd was working at the Ransford hotel corner this morning.

Dissatisfied with the muddy street in front of his hotel, O. H. Johnson, proprietor of the hotel, figuratively speaking took the bull by the horns, by the horns, got the hotel hose, a broom and shovel and wheel barrow and attacked the load of dirt and quickly subdued it.

Harder even than working, was the task of answering the 101 questions fired at him by well meaning friends.

"What are you doing out there?" asked one.

"Working out your poll tax?" inquired a second.

"Got a new job, Johnson?" said a third.

"The city ought to hire you," said another.

Mr. Johnson answered briefly and continued with his hose, broom, shovel and wheelbarrow in giving first aid to Front street, southwest corner Front and Sixth streets.

FOR CONCERT IN BRAINERD

Minneapolis Municipal Band Writes Mayor Henning if Concert Can be Arranged Here

DIRECTOR JOSEPH SAINTON

Writes He Would Like to Include Brainerd in Tour—Talent from Big Symphony Orchestra

Mayor R. A. Henning has received a letter from Joseph Sainton, director of the Minneapolis Municipal band, regarding the inclusion of Brainerd in the summer tour of the musical organization.

Mr. Sainton writes that a tour is being arranged extending from June 10 to the 20th in the cities of the iron range and that he would like to include Brainerd if the municipality would engage the band for one or two concerts either alone or in conjunction with two well known vocalists who tour with the organization.

The newly organized Minneapolis Municipal band consists of thirty-six musicians containing the best talent of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra.

The Minneapolis Journal says of the band that the Minneapolis park band at Lake Harriet this summer will be the highest-priced band ever employed for park concerts and also the best band, in the unanimous opinion of members of the privileged committee of the park board, which authorizes the hiring of the members proposed yesterday by Director Joseph Sainton.

All but two of the 35 band members are now in the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra.

By giving publicity to the letter of Director Sainton, Mayor Henning believed that various forces and organizations in Brainerd might get together and secure this band for a concert.

CRIBBAGE CLUE NO. 2

Completes Series of 150 Games, L. A. McCulloch Winning with 17,329 to His Credit

Brainerd Cribbage Club No. 2 has just completed a series of 150 games at the residence of Wm. T. McCloskey on Friday evening. The following is the standing of the members for the season:

L. A. McCulloch	17,329
W. T. McCloskey	17,919
L. S. Budd	17,917
B. S. Armstrong	16,760
J. C. Higbe	16,695
John Holvick	16,698

L. A. McCulloch made the highest score attained in a single evening, a perfect score of 1210 points, or winning ten straight games. This has not been duplicated in Brainerd for several years.

Following the close of the games the members were treated to a very gratifying six course dinner served by the wives of the several members of the club at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. John Holvick.

L. S. Budd, being chairman of the club, appointed J. C. Higbe toastmaster of the evening. All enjoyed the sumptuous repast.

Following the close of the entertainment each one of the ladies was presented with a beautiful hand-painted plate enclosed in a burnt-wood box.

THE LEGISLATIVE JUNKET IN JUNE

From 75 to 100 Members to Tour Northern Minnesota and to Visit Brainerd Too

GUESTS AT GLENGARRY OF

Senator P. H. McGarry—Party Expected in Brainerd June 21—Should be Entertained

Under the leadership of Senator P. H. McGarry, of Walker, there has been formed a party of 75 to 100 senators and representatives who will take a special train from Minneapolis June 8 and visit Northern Minnesota.

Many of the members will be from the southern part of the state and the junket will serve as a means of instructing them in regard to conditions and resources of the northern section of Minnesota.

Their itinerary includes Duluth and the Mesaba range, International Falls, a voyage on the Lake of the Woods.

At Walker a two days' visit will be made at Glengarry, summer resort of Senator P. H. McGarry, who will entertain them in that whole-hearted manner as only a host like Mr. McGarry can.

The entire delegation, says Senator George H. Gardner, will visit Brainerd on June 21, and steps should be taken to provide suitable entertainment for the distinguished guests.

Hon. E. J. Westlake, of Minneapolis, will have charge of transportation and will be the chief traffic agent.

STOLE SAFETY VALVE

Thieves Steal and Do Damage at John R. Harrington's Drill on the Holland Land

"Some party or parties on Sunday past," says John R. Harrington, who is drilling the Holland eighty in the northeast section of Brainerd, "was mean enough to go to our drill and take away our safety valve and steam gauge which was attached to the boiler. They also caused all the water to be drawn off from the boiler which would have caused the boiler to be burned had we not noticed that the water was drawn from it before making fire in the same."

"I am pleased at all times to give the people of Brainerd all the information they desire regarding our drillings on the Holland lands and I wish that they in return would kindly leave our machinery alone."

"I also wish to state that I do not believe that it was children that did this meanly act, but some party who has had experience about machinery, as wrenches were used to remove the steam gauge and safety valve."

"Mr. Harrington reports that exploration work is now being carried on in Hole No. 2 about 700 feet southeast of Hole No. 1. They are still in ore at a depth of 246 feet. The ore is low grade, but a better grade, it is hoped, will soon be found."

FOR STREET INTERSECTIONS

One of the Problems Confronting Many Cities in Paying for These Improvements

METHODS WHICH ARE IN VOGUE

General Practice is for the City to Bear the Expense, Paying for Same from General Fund

"The matter of street intersections and their payment is of interest to Brainerd people," said Alderman D. A. Peterson, chairman of the street committee.

"The pamphlet of the proceedings of the second annual convention of the League of Minnesota Municipalities has a chapter devoted to street intersections which reveals some of the practices in payment for such improvements. The article states:

"One of the problems which confronts many cities having very similar charter provisions, but resulting in different practices, is the payment of intersections, especially in paying improvements."

"The general practice is for the city to bear the expense, paying for it out of the general or paying intersection fund. This is done in Crookston, Duluth, Minneapolis, Owatonna, Northfield, Winona, Albert Lea, Fergus Falls, Stillwater, Moorhead, Red Wing, Bemidji, Little Falls, Morris, St. Peter, Staples and to some extent in St. Paul."

"Note however, these exceptions and a tendency to recede to the practice of assessing intersections."

"St. Paul has tried both methods and the court sustained her once where a paving assessment was made assessing some intersections and omitting others, the court contenting itself with the remark that the board undoubtedly had some good reason for finding differences in benefits. St. Paul's usual procedure is to divide the total cost, including intersections, by the number of front feet and assessing accordingly. Another method is to pay for the improvement out of the street intersection fund. Both methods are in use at the present time."

"These methods are considered fair by property owners, and are accepted without protest."

CLEANS STREET

O. H. Johnson, Proprietor of Ransford, Takes the Bull by the Horns This Morning

Some of the most high priced street labor ever seen in action in Brainerd was working at the Ransford hotel corner this morning.

Dissatisfied with the muddy street in front of his hotel, O. H. Johnson, proprietor of the hotel, figuratively speaking took the bull of the dilemma by the horns, got the hotel hose, a broom and shovel and wheel barrow and attacked the load of dirt and quickly subdued it.

Harder even than working, was the task of answering the 191 questions fired at him by well meaning friends. "What are you doing out there?" asked one.

"Working out your poll tax?" inquired a second.

"Got a new job, Johnson?" said a third.

"The city ought to hire you," said another.

Mr. Johnson answered briefly and continued with his hose, broom, shovel and wheelbarrow in giving first aid to Front street, southwest corner Front and Sixth streets.

Illinois Farmer and One of His Employees Slain on Way to Church.

Chicago, April 27.—An unidentified man armed with a rifle shot and killed Fred Koch, a prosperous farmer of Calumet Park, a suburb, and Frank D. THIRD INSTALLMENT

SYNOPSIS.

In her apartment at the Leland Villa, daughter of Lord Ashleigh, is murdered and the Ashleigh diamond necklace stolen. The New York police place the case in the hands of Sanford Quest, known and feared as the master criminologist of the world. He takes Lenora, Ella's maid, to his own apartments and through hypnotism and the use of electro-telepathic appliances discovers her connection with the crime, recovers the diamonds and arrests the murderer, MacDougal. Lenora's husband, though nearly trapped to his death in a tough tenement house while engaged in the work, escapes while on his way to prison. A string of diamonds is mysteriously stolen from Mrs. Rheinholdt during a reception.

THE POCKET WIRELESS.

CHAPTER VIII.

Mr. Sanford Quest sat in his favorite chair, his cigar inclined toward the left-hand corner of his mouth, his attention riveted upon a small instrument which he was supporting upon his knee. He glanced across the room to where Lenora was bending over her desk.

"We've done it this time, young woman," he declared triumphantly. "It's all O. K., working like a little peach."

Lenora rose and came toward him. "Is that the pocket wireless?"

He nodded.

"I've had Morrison out at Harlem all the morning to test it," he told her. "I've sent him at least half a dozen messages from this easy chair, and got the replies. How are you getting on with the code?"

"Not so badly for a stupid person," Lenora replied.

Laura, who had been busy with some papers at the farther end of the room, came over and joined them.

"Say, it's a dandy little affair, that, Mr. Quest," she exclaimed. "I had a try with it, a day or so ago. Jim spoke to me from Fifth avenue."

"We've got it tuned to a shade now," Quest declared. "Equipped with this simple little device, you can speak to me from anywhere up to ten or a dozen miles."

Quest rose to his feet and moved restlessly about the room.

"Say, girls," he confessed, "this is the first time in my life I have been in a fix like this. Two cases on hand and nothing doing with either of them. Criminologist, indeed! Whose box is this?"

Quest had paused suddenly in front of an oak sideboard which stood against the wall. Occupying a position upon it of some prominence was a small black box, whose presence there seemed to him unfamiliar. Laura came over to his side and looked at it also in puzzled fashion.

"Never saw it before in my life," she answered.

Quest grunted.

"H'm! No one else has been in the room, and it hasn't been empty for more than ten minutes," he remarked. "Well, let's see what's inside, anyway."

He lifted off the lid. There was nothing in the interior but a sheet of paper folded up. Quest smoothed it out with his hand. They all leaned over and read the following words, written in an obviously disguised hand:

You have embarked on a new study—anthropology. What chance have you most forcibly in connection with it? Cunning? The necklace might be where the skeleton is. Why not begin at the beginning?

The note was unsigned, but in the spot where a signature might have been there was a rough pen drawing of two hands, with fingers extended, talon fashion, menacingly, as though poised to strike at some unseen enemy. Quest, after their first moment of stupefaction, whistled softly.

"The hands!" he muttered.

"What hands?" Lenora asked.

"The hands that gripped Mrs. Rheinholdt by the throat," he reminded them. "Don't you remember? Hands without arms?"

There was another brief, almost stupefied silence. Then Laura broke into speech.

"What I want to know is," she demanded, "who brought the thing here?"

"A most daring exploit, anyway," Quest declared. "If we could answer your question, Laura, we could solve the whole riddle. We are up against something, and no mistake."

"The hand which placed that box there," Quest continued slowly, "is capable of even more wonderful things. We must be cautious. Hello!"

The door had opened. The professor stood upon the threshold.

"I trust that I have done right in coming up?" he inquired.

"Quite right, professor," Quest assured him. "They know well enough downstairs that I am always at home to you. Come in."

"I am so anxious to learn," the professor continued eagerly, "whether there is any news—of my skeleton."

"Not yet, professor, I am sorry to say," Quest replied. "Come in and shut the door."

"There is a young lady here," he said, "who caught me up upon the landing. She, too, I believe, wishes to see you."

He threw open the door and stood on one side. A young woman came a little hesitatingly into the room. Her hair was plainly brushed back, and she wore the severe dress of the Salvation Army.

"Want to see me, young lady?" Quest asked.

She held out a book.

"My name is Miss Quigg," she said. "I want to ask you for a subscription to our funds."

Quest frowned a little.

"Very well, Miss Quigg, you shall have a donation. I am busy today, but call at the same hour tomorrow and my secretary shall have a check ready for you."

The girl smiled her gratitude.

The professor laid his hand upon her arm as she passed.

"Young lady," he observed, "you seem very much in earnest about your work."

"It is only the people in earnest, sir," she answered, "who can do any good in the world. My work is worth being in earnest about."

"You compel my admiration. My most respectful admiration. May I, too, be permitted?"

He drew out a pocketbook and passed over toward her a little wad of notes.

"It is so kind of you," she murmured. "We never have any hesitation in accepting money. May I know your name?"

"It is not necessary," the professor answered. "You can enter me," he added, as he held open the door for her, "as a friend—or would you prefer a pseudonym?"

"A pseudonym, if you please," she begged. "We have so many who send us sums of money as friends. Anything will do."

The professor glanced around the room.

"What pseudonym shall I adopt?" he ruminated. "Shall I say that an oak sideboard gives you five hundred dollars. Or a Chippendale sofa? Or," he added, his eyes resting for a moment upon the little box, "a black box?"

The two girls from the other side of the table started. Even Quest swung suddenly around. The professor, as though pleased with his fancy, nodded as his fingers played with the lid.

"Yes, that will do very nicely," he decided. "Put me down—'Black Box,' five hundred dollars."

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat, which clogs kidneys, then back hurts and bladder bothers you.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless, inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

TWO BIG BILLS TO BE POSTPONED

Little Chance For Philippine and Rural Credits Legislation.

WILSON ADVOCATE OF BOTH.

Senate Will Have Little Time to Consider These Measures at Next Session, as Presidential Campaign Will Necessitate an Adjournment—Slides in Canal a Mystery and Formal Opening May Be Long Delayed.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, April 27.—[Special.]—President Wilson had his first experience with a short session of congress when the gavel fell at noon on March 4. He knew how long debates could last in the senate from his experience with other sessions, but he could not understand how senators could continue to talk in a short session when there was so much important business to be transacted.

Consequently he was disappointed because a number of bills were not considered. Whether rural credits was one of these no one can say. It is altogether probable that the president may have seen the difficulties about rural credit legislation since he first advocated it so earnestly in his address to congress some months ago. Of course he was bitterly disappointed at the defeat of the shipping bill.

Also the Philippine Bill.

The loss of another measure gave the president keen displeasure, as shown in a recently published telegram to Governor Harrison of the Philippines. The loss of the Jones bill extending greater freedom in the Philippines and promising ultimate independence was a source of keen regret. Mr. Wilson said that it was defeated on account of the rules of the senate "as employed by the Republican leaders who were opposed to the legislation." He is determined that it shall pass next session, saying, "It will have my support until it passes."

The Philippine bill was allowed to slumber through two long sessions of congress and pushed through the house in the short session. It is rarely possible to pass contested legislation in a short session if the opposition is strong. As to the Philippine bill, it was reported to the senate so late as to make its passage doubtful even if there had been only ordinary discussion upon it.

Extra Session Measures.

The Philippine bill and rural credits should be extra session measures. If they are to pass they will have to be considered in an extra session, for the regular session will be occupied with other matters to such an extent as to exclude them. The pressure to get through the necessary business and adjourn for the great presidential campaign will be such as to prevent taking up measures which can be postponed to a later date. Rural credits and Philippines will go over.

Found Their Food.

For the first time in several winters the elk herd in Wyoming has been able to find enough food so as not to necessitate a call upon the government to supply fodder. It seems rather strange for the government to be feeding wild animals, but the spirit of preservation of the wild life in America has taken such hold upon the people that the government is willing to assist in feeding such animals as elk, deer, buffalo, etc., when they cannot obtain their own food.

Office Seeks the Man.

When Senator Borah says he will do nothing to obtain the Republican nomination, but will accept it if it comes to him, he puts himself in the position of a number of other gentlemen. But Borah has no idea whatever that the nomination will go to him. If he had he might have a few seekers out helping him. If the presidency wants Borah it will have to seek him. The same seems true in regard to Senator Root and Justice Hughes. It is quite a compliment to those men that the office is on the hunt. Usually the man is hunting the office.

The Canal Mystery.

"General Goethals is almost sacrificing his reputation by delaying formal completion of the canal," remarked a man in the war department. "Military men are determined that the fleet shall not go into the Pacific ocean until the European war situation clears up. One way to accomplish that result is to have a slide handy to block the canal. It is a fine show of confidence to make all necessary plans to send the fleet through the waterway—it shows the European nations we have entire confidence in them—but if conditions in the canal prevent the fleet from going through, why, of course that is another matter."

Huerta a Problem.

Secretary Bryan was asked what he would do if General Huerta came to Washington and sought to call upon him.

"I never assume a problem until it confronts me," was the reply.

"Evidently he considers Huerta a problem," remarked a man who heard the secretary's reply. And yet Huerta is one of the least of the secretary's troubles.

ADMITTS TAKING PLATT'S ADVICE

Roosevelt Tells of Consulting New York Boss.

ADVANCE COPY OF MESSAGE

Letter Shows Colonel Sent to Senator Platt a Proof of His Message to the State Legislature, Stating That the Part Dealing With Trusts Had Been Submitted to Several Experts.

Syracuse, N. Y., April 27.—Theodore Roosevelt admitted under cross-examination in the libel suit of William Barnes that while governor he had consulted freely with the late Senator Thomas C. Platt, "boss" of the Republican party in New York state, regarding the appointment of officials in the state government and various legislative and political matters.

The former president said he took the advice of the senator in many matters, among them appointing a Democrat to the office of tax commissioner to please Grady, whom the colonel described as a lieutenant boss of Richard Croker, then leader of Tammany Hall.

The testimony resulted from questions asked after letters that passed between Colonel Roosevelt and Senator Platt had been read to the jury. In one Colonel Roosevelt asked the senator's advice about making speeches.

In another Senator Platt told the colonel he had received a copy of a bill introduced by Grady, in which the senator said he considered it inadvisable to give Tammany from $3,000,000 to $12,000,000 on an appropriation to expend upon the water front of New York, as it "would simply be putting an unnecessary club in the hands of those people with which to knock our brains out."

With another letter the colonel sent the senator a proof of his message to the legislature, which dealt with, among other things, public utilities, the franchise tax, the trusts, industrial conditions and labor.

The part dealing with the trusts, the colonel wrote, "had been submitted to several 'experts,' including Elihu Root, President Hadley of Yale, Professor Jenks of Cornell and James A. Dill, who was described in the letter as a 'big corporation lawyer.'"

And in the last letter read, which was dated in 1901, Colonel Roosevelt told the senator that he did not want to be vice president of the United States, as it was not an office in which he could do anything.

The colonel said he should like to be governor for another term and that "in spite of all the work and worry—and very largely because of your constant courtesy and consideration, my dear senator—I have thoroughly enjoyed being governor."

The colonel added that not being a money-maker, he felt "in honor bound to leave his children the equivalent in a substantial sum of actual achievement in politics or letters."

CAPITALIST KILLS HIMSELF

R. H. Fagan of Duluth Ends Life by Shooting.

Duluth, April 27.—R. H. Fagan, one of the principal fee holders in the famous section 30 mine, committed suicide by shooting in his office. Fagan, who was about fifty-five years old, had been rated as wealthy. The cause for his suicide is unknown. He is survived by a widow and daughter.

Fagan was in the section 30 case from the beginning of the noted controversy and his passing leaves few, if any, of the original contestants, aside from the Merritts of Duluth, surviving.

St. Paul, April 27.—Lyon and Kanabec counties, containing three saloons each, voted dry in the first elections under the new Minnesota county option law.

Although not all precincts had reported to their respective county seats the drys were so far ahead that victory is assured. It was said in both cases that the drys will maintain their proportionate lead in all precincts.

A New Method of Baking Cakes

Mrs. Nevada Briggs, the baking expert, says:

"There is just one way to make your cakes rise high and evenly—give them time to rise before a crust is formed and the batter is stiffened by cooking."

"If using a gas, gasoline or oil stove, light your oven when you put the cake in and keep the flame low until the cake has doubled in bulk; then increase the heat until it is evenly browned and will respond to the pressure of the finger. If using a coal or wood range, leave the oven door open until the cake is in; then turn on the drafts and by the time the oven is at baking temperature, the cake will have raised sufficiently."

For rich, moist, feathery cakes Mrs. Briggs always recommends

K.C. BAKING POWDER

It is double acting and sustains the raise. You can open and close the oven door, turn the tin around in the oven or do anything else necessary, without any danger of making the cake fall.

Try your favorite cake next time with K.C. Baking Powder and see how much higher it will rise. Make it just as you always do, with the same quantity of baking powder. While K.C. is less expensive than the old fashioned baking powders, it has even greater leavening strength and it is guaranteed pure and healthful.

THE GOOD JUDGE MEETS A BRIDE AND GROOM

SAY JUDGE, I'VE JUST BEEN SPLICED, AND THE LITTLE LADY SAYS SHE WANTS ME TO USE THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW AND THAT'S THE ONLY KIND TO HAVE ANYWAY.

A SENSIBLE WIFE, MY BOY, YOU KNOW WHAT'S BEST AND SHE WANTS YOU TO HAVE IT.

"SPLICED for life"—that's what men say when they hook up with the Real Tobacco Chew.

It's the good tobacco that satisfies—and you get your comfort from a little chew. Happy as a bride-groom—and they pass the good news on.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough—cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW IS NOW CUT TWO WAYS!! W-B CUT IS LONG SHRED. RIGHT CUT IS SHORT SHRED.

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end. The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much.

"Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste."

THIRD INSTALLMENT

SYNOPSIS.

In her apartment at the Leland Villa, daughter of Lord Ashleigh, is murdered and the Ashleigh diamond necklace stolen. The New York police place the case in the hands of Sanford Quest, known and feared as the master criminologist of the world. He takes Lenora, Ella's maid, to his own apartments and through hypnotism and the use of electro-telepathic appliances discovers her connection with the crime, recovers the diamonds and arrests the murderer, Macdougall. Lenora's husband, though nearly trapped to his death in a tough tenement house while engaged in the work, Lenora becomes one of Quest's assistants. The detective is called in to investigate the theft of the skeleton of an ape, of Lord Ashleigh. Macdougall escapes while on his way to prison. A string of diamonds is mysteriously stolen from Mrs. Rheinholdt during a reception.

THE POCKET WIRELESS.

CHAPTER VIII.

Mr. Sanford Quest sat in his favorite chair, his cigar inclined toward the left-hand corner of his mouth, his attention riveted upon a small instrument which he was supporting upon his knee. He glanced across the room to where Lenora was bending over her desk.

"We've done it this time, young woman," he declared triumphantly. "It's all O. K., working like a little peach."

Lenora rose and came toward him. "Is that the pocket wireless?"

He nodded.

"I've had Morrison out at Harlen all the morning to test it. He called her. 'I've sent him at least half a dozen messages from this easy chair, and got the replies. How are you getting on with the code?'"

"Not so badly for a stupid person," Lenora replied.

Laura, who had been busy with some papers at the farther end of the room, came over and joined them.

"Say, it's a dandy little affair, that, Mr. Quest," she exclaimed. "I had a try with it, a day or so ago. Jim spoke to me from Fifth avenue."

"We've got it tuned to a shade now," Quest declared. "Equipped with this simple little device, you can speak to me from anywhere up to ten or a dozen miles."

Quest rose to his feet and moved restlessly about the room.

"Say, girls," he confessed, "this is the first time in my life I have been in a fix like this. Two cases on hand and nothing doing with either of them. Criminologist, indeed! Whose box is this?"

Quest had paused suddenly in front of an oak sideboard which stood against the wall. Occupying a position upon it of some prominence was a small black box, whose presence there seemed to him unfamiliar.

Laura came over to his side and looked at it also in puzzled fashion.

"Never saw it before in my life," she answered.

Quest grunted.

"H'm! No one else has been in the room, and it hasn't been empty for more than ten minutes," he remarked. "Well, let's see what's inside, anyway."

He lifted off the lid. There was nothing in the interior but a sheet of paper folded up. Quest smoothed it out with his hand. They all leaned over and read the following words, written in an obviously disguised hand:

You have embarked on a new study—anthropology. What characteristic strikes you most forcibly in connection with it? Cunnings? The necklace might be where the skeleton is. Why not begin at the beginning?

The note was unsigned, but in the spot where a signature might have been there was a rough pen drawing of two hands, with fingers extended, talon fashion, menacingly, as though poised to strike at some unseen enemy. Quest, after their first moment of stupefaction, whistled softly.

"The hands!" he muttered.

"What hands?" Lenora asked.

"The hands that gripped Mrs. Rheinholdt by the throat," he reminded them. "Don't you remember? Hands without arms?"

There was another brief, almost stupefied silence. Then Laura broke into speech.

"What I want to know is," she demanded, "who brought the thing here?"

"A most daring exploit, anyway," Quest declared. "If we could answer your question, Laura, we could solve the whole riddle. We are up against something, and no mistake."

"The hand which placed that box there," Quest continued slowly, "is capable of even more wonderful things. We must be cautious. Hello!"

The door had opened. The professor stood upon the threshold.

"I trust that I have done right in coming up?" he inquired.

"Quite right, professor," Quest assured him. "They know well enough downstairs that I am always at home to you. Come in."

"I am so anxious to learn," the professor continued eagerly, "whether there is any news—of my skeleton."

"Not yet, professor, I am sorry to say," Quest replied. "Come in and shut the door."

"There is a young lady here," he said, "who caught me up upon the landing. She, too, I believe, wishes to see you."

He threw open the door and stood on one side. A young woman came a little hesitatingly into the room. Her hair was plainly brushed back, and she wore the severe dress of the Salvation Army.

"Want to see me, young lady?" Quest asked.

She held out a book.

"My name is Miss Quigg," she said. "I want to ask you for a subscription to our funds."

Quest frowned a little.

"Very well, Miss Quigg, you shall have a donation. I am busy today, but call at the same hour tomorrow and my secretary shall have a check ready for you."

The girl smiled her gratitude.

The professor laid his hand upon her arm as she passed.

"Young lady," he observed, "you seem very much in earnest about your work."

"It is only the people in earnest, sir," she answered, "who can do any good in the world. My work is worth being in earnest about."

"You compel my admiration. My most respectful admiration. May I, too, be permitted?"

He drew out a pocketbook and passed over toward her a little wad of notes.

"It is so kind of you," she murmured. "We never have any hesitation in accepting money. May I know your name?"

"It is not necessary," the professor answered. "Shall I enter me," he added, as he held open the door for her, "as a friend—or would you prefer a pseudonym?"

"A pseudonym, if you please," she begged. "We have so many who send us sums of money as friends. Anything will do."

The professor glanced around the room.

"What pseudonym shall I adopt?" he ruminated. "Shall I say that an oak sideboard gives you five hundred dollars? Or a Chippendale sofa? Or," he added, his eyes resting for a moment upon the little box, "a black box?"

The two girls from the other side of the table started. Even Quest swung suddenly around. The professor, as though pleased with his fancy, nodded as his fingers played with the lid.

"Yes, that will do very nicely," he decided. "Put me down—'Black Box,' five hundred dollars."

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat, which clogs kidneys, then back hurts and bladder bothers you.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

TWO BIG BILLS TO BE POSTPONED

Little Chance For Philippine and Rural Credits Legislation.

WILSON ADVOCATE OF BOTH.

Senate Will Have Little Time to Consider These Measures at Next Session, as Presidential Campaign Will Necessitate an Adjournment—Slides in Canal a Mystery and Formal Opening May Be Long Delayed.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, April 27.—[Special.]—President Wilson had his first experience with a short session of congress when the gavels fell at noon on March 4. He knew how long debates could last in the senate from his experience with other sessions, but he could not understand how senators could continue to talk in a short session when there was so much important business to be transacted.

Consequently he was disappointed because a number of bills were not considered. Whether rural credits was one of these no one can say. It is altogether probable that the president may have seen the difficulties about rural credit legislation since he first advocated it so earnestly in his address to congress some months ago. Of course he was bitterly disappointed at the defeat of the shipping bill.

Also the Philippine Bill.

The loss of another measure gave the president keen displeasure, as shown in a recently published telegram to Governor Harrison of the Philippines. The loss of the Jones bill extending greater freedom in the Philippines and promising ultimate independence was a source of keen regret. Mr. Wilson said that it was defeated on account of the rules of the senate "as employed by the Republican leaders who were opposed to the legislation." He is determined that it shall pass next session, saying, "It will have my support until it passes."

The Philippine bill was allowed to slumber through two long sessions of congress and pushed through the house in the short session. It is rarely possible to pass contested legislation in a short session if the opposition is strong. As to the Philippine bill, it was reported to the senate so late as to make its passage doubtful even if there had been only ordinary discussion upon it.

Extra Session Measures.

The Philippine bill and rural credits should be extra session measures. If they are to pass they will have to be considered in an extra session, for the regular session will be occupied with other matters to such an extent as to exclude them. The pressure to get through the necessary business and adjourn for the great presidential campaign will be such as to prevent taking up measures which can be postponed to a later date. Rural credits and Philippines will go over.

Found Their Food.

For the first time in several winters the elk herd in Wyoming has been able to find enough food so as not to necessitate a call upon the government to supply fodder. It seems rather strange for the government to be feeding wild animals, but the spirit of preservation of the wild life in America has taken such hold upon the people that the government is willing to assist in feeding such animals as elk, deer, buffalo, etc., when they cannot obtain their own food.

Office Seeks the Man.

When Senator Borah says he will do nothing to obtain the Republican nomination, but will accept it if it comes to him, he puts himself in the position of a number of other gentlemen. But Borah has no idea whatever that the nomination will go to him. If he had he might have a few seekers out helping him. If the presidency wants Borah it will have to seek him. The same seems true in regard to Senator Root and Justice Hughes. It is quite a compliment to those men that the office is on the hunt. Usually the man is hunting the office.

The Canal Mystery.

"General Goethals is almost sacrificing his reputation by delaying formal completion of the canal," remarked a man in the war department. "Military men are determined that the fleet shall not go into the Pacific ocean until the European war situation clears up. One way to accomplish that result is to have a slide handy to block the canal. It is a fine show of confidence to make all necessary plans to send the fleet through the waterway—it shows the European nations we have entire confidence in them—but if conditions in the canal prevent the fleet from going through, why, of course that is another matter."

Huerta a Problem.

Secretary Bryan was asked what he would do if General Huerta came to Washington and sought to call upon him.

"I never assume a problem until it confronts me," was the reply.

"Evidently he considers Huerta a problem," remarked a man who heard the secretary's reply. And yet Huerta is one of the least of the secretary's troubles.

ADMITS TAKING PLATT'S ADVICE

Roosevelt Tells of Consulting New York Boss.

ADVANCE COPY OF MESSAGE

Letter Shows Colonel Sent to Senator

Platt a Proof of His Message to the State Legislature, Stating That the Part Dealing With Trusts Had Been Submitted to Several Experts.

Syracuse, N. Y., April 27.—Theodore Roosevelt admitted under cross-examination in the libel suit of William Barnes that while governor he had consulted freely with the late Senator Thomas C. Platt, "boss" of the Republican party in New York state, regarding the appointment of officials in the state government and various legislative and political matters.

The former president said he took the advice of the senator in many matters, among them appointing a Democrat to the office of tax commissioner to please Grady, whom the colonel described as a lieutenant boss of Richard Croker, then leader of Tammany Hall.

The testimony resulted from questions asked after letters that passed between Colonel Roosevelt and Senator Platt had been read to the jury. In one Colonel Roosevelt asked the senator's advice about making speeches.

In another Senator Platt told the colonel he had received a copy of a bill introduced by Grady, in which the senator said he considered it inadvisable to give Tammany from $3,000,000 to $12,000,000 on an appropriation to expend upon the water front of New York, as it "would simply be putting an unnecessary club in the hands of those people with which to knock our brains out."

With another letter the colonel sent the senator a proof of his message to the legislature, which dealt with, among other things, public utilities, the franchise tax, the trusts, industrial conditions and labor.

The part dealing with the trusts, the colonel wrote, "had been submitted to several 'experts,' including Elihu Root, President Hadley of Yale, Professor Jenks of Cornell and James A. Dill, who was described in the letter as a 'big corporation lawyer.'"

And in the last letter read, which was dated in 1901, Colonel Roosevelt told the senator that he did not want to be vice president of the United States, as it was not an office in which he could do anything.

The colonel said he should like to be governor for another term and that "in spite of all the work and worry—and very largely because of your constant courtesy and consideration, my dear senator—I have thoroughly enjoyed being governor."

The colonel added that, not being a moneymaker, he felt "in honor bound to leave his children the equivalent in a substantial sum of actual achievement in politics or letters."

CAPITALIST KILLS HIMSELF

R. H. Fagan of Duluth Ends Life by Shooting.

Duluth, April 27.—R. H. Fagan, one of the principal fee holders in the famous section 30 mine, committed suicide by shooting in his office. Fagan, who was about fifty-five years old, had been rated as wealthy. The cause for his suicide is unknown. He is survived by a widow and daughter.

Fagan was in the section 30 case from the beginning of the noted controversy and his passing leaves few, if any, of the original contestants, aside from the Merritts of Duluth, surviving.

TWO COUNTIES VOTE DRY

First Results Under Minnesota County Option Law.

St. Paul, April 27.—Lyon and Kanabec counties, containing three saloons each, voted dry in the first elections under the new Minnesota county option law.

Although not all precincts had reported to their respective county seats the dries were so far ahead that victory is assured. It was said in both cases that the dries will maintain their proportionate lead in all precincts.
